YOUNG WATER AMBASSADORS' DECLARATION

6th World Water Forum, Marseille 2012

We are young water ambassadors, all around the same water : the Mediterranean basin. We share the same climate, the same product of the soil and especially similar aspirations. We all aim to preserve our resources for the needs of future generations. For this reason, we want to bring together our knowledge, technology, experience, efforts and enthusiasm as young people for sustainable development. Our duty is to bridge the gap between water supply and water demand.

Because of these reasons, we promote the use of new management tools and approaches for international coordinated use of water resources. STRATEAU, among other tools, enables us to understand the complexity of water basins and to project sustainable scenarios. Therefore, we ask you to adopt this solution and promote it all around the world.

As Mediterranean riparian countries we should share water resources in an equitable and fair manner. We would like the opportunity to meet and exchange ideas and experience working on joint international projects with other young students from neighboring Mediterranean countries. As young people, we hope to advance technology and approach our problems with a fresh and simple point of view. We are already working together and we want decision takers to hear us and most of all trust us.
